EVENT SITUATION

You are to assume the role of a tourism coordinator at VISIT LAKE HARMON, the tourism office for a small lakeside town. The executive director (judge) has asked you to plan how to communicate with different groups about an upcoming youth soccer tournament.

This June, Lake Harmon will host a three-day youth soccer tournament that will bring about 10,000 visitors to town. Visiting families need information about hotels, restaurants and parking. Local business owners need to know how busy the weekend will be. Residents need to know that the town's main street will be closed to cars for parts of the weekend.

Last year, many residents did not learn about a road closure for a smaller event until the day it happened, and they were upset. The executive director (judge) wants you to explain how the message and the way it is written should change for each group, and which methods should be used to reach each group.

You will present your ideas to the executive director (judge) in a role-play to take place at the VISIT LAKE HARMON office. The executive director (judge) will begin the role-play by greeting you and asking to hear your ideas. After you have presented your ideas and have answered the executive director's (judge's) questions, the executive director (judge) will conclude the role-play by thanking you for your work.

Possible Judge's Questions:

1. How should our message to residents sound different from our message to visiting families?
2. How far in advance should residents hear about the road closure, and how?
