EVENT SITUATION

You are to assume the role of the product development manager for SUNSET RESORTS, a well-known chain of family-friendly beach resorts. The chief operating officer (judge) is considering the introduction of a new family-oriented service aimed at enhancing guest experiences during their stays.

SUNSET RESORTS has successfully offered a variety of amenities, including kids' clubs, beach activities, and family meal options. However, to further differentiate itself from competitors and improve guest satisfaction, the COO is contemplating the launch of a "Family Adventure Package." This package would include guided excursions, family photo sessions, and special themed events.

Before moving forward, the COO (judge) wants you to analyze the potential benefits and drawbacks of introducing this package, particularly in relation to customer preferences, market trends, and the operational feasibility of implementing such a service.

Your analysis should cover:

- Competitive advantages the Family Adventure Package could provide.
- Possible challenges in execution and customer adoption.
- Recommendations for pricing, marketing strategies, and promotional efforts.

You will present your analysis to the COO (judge) in a meeting in their office. The COO (judge) will start the meeting by greeting you and asking to hear your analysis. After you've presented your ideas and answered the COO's (judge's) questions, the COO (judge) will conclude the meeting by thanking you for your insights.

Possible Judge's Questions:

1. What marketing strategies do you believe would be most effective in promoting the Family Adventure Package, and how would you measure the success of these efforts?
2. What factors did you consider with the pricing for the Family Adventure Package to ensure it aligns with both our brand positioning and customer expectations?
