EVENT SITUATION

You are to assume the role of a marketing specialist for the GRANITE BAY SURGE, a new professional women's volleyball team. The team president (judge) wants you to explain how the team should plan its marketing before its first season.

The SURGE will play 12 home matches in a 4,800-seat arena, starting in eight months. The team has no history, no fans and no famous players yet. So far, 1,200 people have put down $50 deposits for season tickets. The team has 9,000 social media followers, most of whom followed after the team name and logo were announced.

Volleyball is popular in the area. About 3,400 kids play on youth club volleyball teams, and the local university women's volleyball team averages 2,100 fans per home match.

The team president (judge) wants you to:

- Explain what marketing planning is and why the SURGE needs to start it now.
- Identify market segments the team should target.
- Explain how the team could forecast ticket sales for its first season.
- Recommend ways to grow the team's social media following.
- Explain how to turn early fans into loyal fans who spread the word.

You will present your ideas to the team president (judge) in a meeting at the team office. The team president (judge) will begin the meeting by greeting you and asking to hear your ideas. After you have presented your ideas and answered the team president's (judge's) questions, the team president (judge) will conclude the meeting by thanking you for your work.

Possible Judge's Questions:

1. With no past seasons to look at, how accurate can our first ticket forecast be?
2. Should we spend our marketing budget on youth volleyball families or on adults who have never watched volleyball?
