- “Turn in all of your notes and event materials when you have completed the event.”

21st CENTURY SKILLS

- Critical Thinking – Reason effectively and use systems thinking.
- Communication – Communicate clearly.
- Creativity and Innovation – Show evidence of creativity.

PERFORMANCE INDICATORS

1. Demonstrate a customer service mindset.
2. Explain the nature of positive customer relations.
3. Interpret business policies to customers/clients.
4. Handle customer/client complaints.

EVENT SITUATION

You are the owner of BOWTIE EMPORIUM, a local store specializing in men's business clothing and accessories. A customer (judge) is unhappy because they recently purchased a suit from your store but did not receive the 15% discount that was part of a limited-time promotion.

BOWTIE EMPORIUM recently ran a promotional campaign offering a 15% discount on all bowties purchased within the first week of the month. The promotion was advertised in-store and online. However, the customer (judge) purchased a bowtie just a few days after the promotion ended and missed out on the discount. The customer (judge) is upset about missing the promotion by a narrow margin and feels they should be eligible for the discount.

As the entrepreneur, you need to address the customer's (judge's) concern while maintaining a positive relationship. Your goal is to explain the details of the promotion, why the customer did not qualify for the discount, and propose a solution or compensation if possible

You will explain customer relations concerns to the customer (judge) in a role-play to take place at the store. The customer (judge) will begin the role-play by asking for the discount after the promotion. After you have explained and have answered the customer (judge's) questions, the customer (judge) will conclude the role-play by thanking you for your work.

Potential Judge's Questions:

1. What steps can you take to ensure that I feel valued as a customer, even though I missed the promotion?
2. How can I ensure that my shopping experience at Bowtie Emporium is better in the future, especially regarding promotions?
